

Conversion of Septic Tank to Effluent Treatment System.

The wastewater from the house enters the primary chamber and then flows to the aeration chamber. In the aeration chamber air is blown from the compressor to the diffuser for the aeration treatment and the sludge return pipe to continually air lift the wastewater from the bottom of the aeration chamber back to the primary chamber. The treated effluent flows by gravity to the percolation area. A discharge pump can be installed if require.

